Movants are Camp Fire Survivors. Movants were consistently told they did not have a claim because their house did not burn down completely. Being that this was Movant's first experience retaining an attorney or filing a claim, they simply took the advice of their landlord, although it was false. Their landlord told them that they did not have to file a claim because they will be covered under his claim. After the Movant were told they did not have a claim, they decided to try to pick up the pieces and try to get their life back to what it used to be on their own, without filing a claim. However, unfortunately, Movants realized it is difficult to do so.

Movants were misinformed about the law and were so preoccupied with starting over after the fire that they put off thinking about the fire until they sought legal advice from Frantz Law Group.

Movants are Camp Fire Survivors. Movants were consistently told they did not have a claim because their house did not burn down completely. They were also told by other counsel that since they are renters, they do not have a claim since they do not own the property. After the Movant were told they did not have a claim, they did not try to pursue it any further because they were misinformed about the law. Movants were unsuccessful on trying to get their life back to what it was before without the help of being able to file a claim.

Movants were misinformed about the law and were so preoccupied with starting over after the fire that they put off thinking about the fire until they sought legal advice from Frantz Law Group.

Movants are Camp Fire Survivors. At the time of the fire, Movant was a 17-year-old minor who was residing at this address with his mother. This is Movant's first experience retaining an attorney or filing a claim, as they never knew how the process worked before since they were a minor. Additionally, he and his mother took the advice of their landlord, although it was false. Their landlord told them that they did not have to file a claim because they will be covered under his claim, which was false. Unfortunately, Movants realized it is difficult to move on after the fire without a claim. Movant is now a college student who is also working and trying to get his life back in order. Movant was misinformed about the law until he sought legal advice from Frantz Law Group.
